Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1, 2, 15, 17-21, 23 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Yamada et al (US 6,134,096).

Yamada et al anticipates the ceramic heater claimed including a ceramic substrate with a heating element, a convex body formed on the surface of the ceramic substrate to hold apart an object from the ceramic substrate heating surface, the ceramic substrate having 5 % yttria as the sintering aid, and a hole through which a pin is provided to hold and life an object such as a wafer

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamada et al (US 6,134,096) in view of Muka (US 5,854,468) or Armstrong et al (US 6,072,163).

Yamada et al discloses the ceramic heater claimed except the convex body to hold an object 5 to 5000 um apart from the heating surface.

Muka or Armstrong shows a wafer heater having a convex body to hold a wafer apart from the heating surface at 50 to 100 um and 150 um, respectively. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to adapt Yamada et al with the convex body having the claimed depth or height to adequately provide uniform heating from the heating surface to a wafer.

5. Claims 22, 25 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamada et al (US 6,134,096) in view of Kobayashi et al (US 5,908,799).

Yamada et al discloses the ceramic heater claimed except having the ceramic substrate having 200 to 5000 ppm of carbon.

Kobayashi et al shows a ceramic heater having a ceramic substrate made of aluminum nitride with 500 to 5000 ppm of carbon. Kobayashi et al teaches that adding such carbon provides the ceramic substrate with a blackish color while providing greater radiation heat capacity. In view of Kobayashi et al, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to adapt Yamada et al with 500 to 5000 ppm of carbon to the ceramic substrate to provide the ceramic heater with a blackish color that provides a high radiation heat capacity.

With respect claims 25 and 26, Kobayashi et al also discloses having a metal wire as the resistive heating element. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to adapt Yamada et al with a metal wire as the heating element to provide the necessary heat.

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1, 2 and 15-26 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
